Levitt Makes New School Offer; Pins It On Annexation

William J. Levitt yesterday offered to build schools for the 1500 acres owned by Levitt and Sons, Inc., in Middletown township, if that tract is annexed by Bristol township. The announcement was made by Ralph Myers, a Levitt representative, who added that the schools would be in addition to the two schools which Levitt offered the township school board last week.

Levitt and the Middletown township supervisors have been at odds for some time over the proposed change in zoning ordinance whereby building areas would be reduced from 12,000 square feet to 7,000 square feet.

Levitt maintained that present "harassment" from township officials on this subject caused his firm to suspend further building operations in the $3,000,000 project until the present situation is cleared up.

Petitions Circulate

However, agents of Levitt have been circulating petitions among the residents of the Middletown township, who live near the project, to institute court proceedings

Ultimatum Sent School Board By CIO Bus Drivers

Hint They May Call for Strike On Lines Friday

A strike of recently-organized Bristol Township school bus drivers today stood out as a possibility.

In a telegram last night to J. Russell Straub, President of the township school board, James J. Gallagher, head of Local 282, CIO Transport Workers Union, hinted at a walkout on Friday. Included in the telegram was a demand that the board meet with union representatives not later than tomorrow night.

Confer With Attorney

The message was drafted after Gallagher, International Representative Andrew J. Kaelin of the union, and the drivers conferred with John P. Betz, school board solicitor at the lawyer's office. Gallagher and Kaelin, a co-signer of the telegram, condemned the meeting as a "stalling tactic."

"In the past 27 days we have tried every means to set up a meeting with the school board," the message said, "but to no avail. The latest move of the school board, in sending us to meet with the school attorney, was just another stalling tactic employed by you and your school board.

Demand Meeting

"We feel now that we will take any and all action if a meeting is not arranged by Thursday night, Oct. 29.

"We are now issuing a warning to parents of children who are transported by school buses that if this action is not taken, it would be advisable for them to keep their children at home on Friday. We are now placing the responsibility on the school board if for any reason there is no bus transportation Friday.

Gallagher said he and the other union men were told by Beta that he has no authority to negotiate with the union. The union president said Betz expressed surprise as to why Straub instructed him to meet with the attorney to discuss the situation.

Silent on Haas Reply

The school board recently wrote to Dr. Francis B. Haas, state superintendent of education, asking if

Union Holds First Talks With Spolar

Negotiations for a first contract between the Penndel independent union and Spolar Brothers Tool Corporation of Penndel opened last night in the offices of the company.

Milton Cameron, president of the union, said the talks were exploratory. He said a contract detailing wages, hours and working conditions will be worked out in the weeks to follow.

Union and company representatives will meet again at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday at the plant.

Drive Chairmen Interviewed

AN INTERVIEW WITH LEADERS of the Lower Bucks County Hospital Completion Fund was made this morning in the editorial offices of THE BRISTOL COURIER for re-broadcast tonight at 10:35 o'clock on the Delaware Valley Review program of station WTTM, Trenton, 920 on your dial. Left to right are: Warren A. Jennings and Mrs. Reba C. Goebig, members of the hospital board of directors and co-chairmen of the community division of the Completion Fund committee, and John J. Kerrigan, managing editor of THE COURIER, who interviewed them. The interview followed the Courier newscast which is made daily at 9:55 a. m.

Legal Moves Awaited In Annexation Tangle

No legal moves to annex Middletown Township lands south of Lincoln Highway to Bristol Township have been started, but it appeared today that nothing stood in the way of the annexation. It seemed the next move was up to Levitt and Sons, Inc.

George Sottung chairman of the Bristol Township Board of Commissioners which okayed annexation in a recent statement, said he knew of no legal moves to make the annexation a fact.

Bristol Township Solicitor Robert Baker said one of the first legal moves would be a presentation of a petition by residents in the area to be annexed, expressing a majority wish for the annexation.

New Statute

This is in accord with a new state statute which permits annexation of second class township lands by a first class township such as Bristol Township.

Of approximately 2000 acres involved in the proposed annexation, some 1500 are owned by Levitt and Sons, Inc., which proposes to construct a housing development there of 16,000 homes. There are some 25 property owners on the remainder of the land, according to J. Russell Newbold, chairman of Middletown Township Board of Supervisors.

It appeared that if he chose, Levitt could submit a petition for annexation of his lands at least. Newbold said today it was his opinion that the residents in the remaining area would approve annexation of their property.

Increase Value

"It would certainly increase the value of their property if it were adjacent to the proposed housing development," Newbold said.

A Levitt spokesman said yesterday there is no decision by Levitt on whether to petition for the annexation by Bristol Township.

Though Bristol Township Commissioners stated their approval of the annexation, the school board went on record some weeks ago as opposed. School board members said they felt the annexation would be a financial liability.

Booz Name Missing

The name of Commissioner Oscar Booz did not appear with the names of other commissioners as approving the annexation.

Mosquito Control Program Widened To Cover All Year

The name of the Lower Bucks County Mosquito Control Commission has been changed to Bucks County Mosquito Control Commission.

According to Arthur Walter, director of the program, the name has been changed to widen the control area. Municipalities that took part in the program last summer and those interested in joining in next year's war on the mosquito attended a meeting Monday night.

"One of the most important aspects of our work," Walter said, "is that it must be a continuous program. If we stopped for even one month during the summer, enough mosquitoes would be bred to wipe out all we've accomplished in the past."

In line with this, an executive committee will be appointed to function officially during the winter months. The five-man board will be responsible for the hiring of new personnel, educating the public about the work the commission is doing and starting next season's "battle" as early as possible.

At the meeting, letters of commendation on the commission's work were read.

Find Downcast Ghost Hep To Window Pane

"Too Young To Spook," a painting showing a downcast baby ghost, was the first prize winner in the Hallowe'en window painting contest sponsored by the Levittown Civic Association.

The painting, which is on a W. T. Grant window, was painted by two Pennsbury High School students, Marge Fergerson, 72 Nearwood lane, and Carol Keichtly, 7 Nector lane.

Prizes, which are being donated by the Levittown Businessmens Association, will be awarded at the Hallowe'en block party, Friday night.

Second Prize Winners

Second prize winners were Joyce Vorse, 11 Flower lane, and Daniel Schein, 42 Fireside lane. Edward Budney, 214 Pinewood drive, Martha Pickersgill, 50 Pond lane, and Joan Casswell, 35 Palm lane, painted the third prize window.

The three honorable mention windows were painted by the following groups: Kay Godfrey, 43 Strawberry lane, Audrey Taylor, 36 Grove lane, and Phyllis Handley, 5 Morning Glory lane; Jim Nugent, 19 Crimson King lane, and Dick Coluccio, 6 Stream lane; Janet Vurns, 14 Freedom lane, and Adriene Ginnis, 52 Tall Pine lane.

Contest Judges

Contest judges were Louis Boodley, Joseph Dowling, Samuel Lapensohn, Elizabeth Shilling, Mrs. Dorothy Yonker and Mrs. Sylvia Cooper.

All contestants were Levittown residents, though either high school or grade children could take part. Advice of the school art department instructors was permitted. Most of the windows were painted by groups of two or more.

Each window is numbered and the winners have large colored stickers pasted on them, signifying the place won. Signature of the painters are not permitted.

Health Dept. Given Support by C. of C.

The board of directors of the Lower Bucks-Bristol Chamber of Commerce unanimously passed a resolution last night backing the creation of a Bucks County Health Department.

After a lengthy study of the pros and cons of the proposal, which will appear on the Nov. 3 ballot, the organization gave it full support, according to John Franks, secretary.

The group also discussed plans for its new program of work for Lower Bucks county, and will formulate its plans within a month.

Directors attending the meeting were President Edward A. Neibauer, Steven Midouhas, John C. Johnson, William L. Lloyd, W. B. McCluer, A. E. Lewis, William A. Aitken, Horace P. Schmidt, Francis J. O'Boyle, C. E. Stoneback, Jr., Samuel Farruggio and Franks.

John Fitch School To Open Saturday

Dr. Charles H. Boehm, superintendent of Bucks County schools, will speak at the dedication on Saturday of the John Fitch School. The opening exercises are set for 10:30 a. m.

J. Russell Straub, president of the Bristol Township Board of Education, will greet the guests and participate in the laying of the cornerstone for the Levittown building.

Members of the Township Board of Supervisors, the school authority, PTA officials and members of the board of education will be on hand to participate in the ceremonies.

The dedication marks the opening of the first nine rooms of the building, which will be ready for ocucpancy. The public will be invited to tour the completed portion of the building, following the ceremonies, according to Straub.

STUDENTS AT Tullytown School had a thrill on Monday when members of Tullytown Volunteer Fire Company demonstrated fire-fighting apparatus to them. Joseph Cutchineal, first driver for the company, showed Richard Egan, 31 Lavender lane, Levittown, and Dorothy Brown, Pond street, Tullytown, how to operate the hose.

A HOT TIME

Fire Company's Membership Drive Doubles Membership in One Night

The membership drive of Levittown Fire Company No. 1 really caught fire last night, according to Benjamin F. Hamilton, treasurer. Hamilton said that on the first night of the drive, the number of volunteer members doubled from 40 to 80.

The unit, which met at the Falls Township Fire House in Fallsington, made plans to continue the drive with placards, notices, and door-to-door soliciting.

Hamilton added that although the company is chiefly interested in active memberships, residents of the community who cannot participate actively are being asked to join, too. He explained that membership dues are used for fire equipment.

After hearing a speech last night by County Fire-Police Marshall Robert Brenner, the group decided to organize a fire-police unit. Chief Robert W. Quinlan will appoint men to direct traffic during fire so the men will be given law-enforcement status and will be sworn in by township supervisors.

A further discussion was held about the new fire house site promised by Levitt and Sons, Inc. The deed should be ready for acceptance shortly Hamilton said. Fire Company engineers have drawn up preliminary plans for the new building, and drawings will be submitted to the Levitt architects for approval next week.

8 Slaying Jurors Picked First Day

Eight jurors were chosen, seven men and a Jamison woman, during the first day of the murder trial of Joshua Goodwyn, 32, formerly of Yardley, after 35 men and women had been interrogated at Doylestown.

Judge Edward G. Beister is presiding at the trial of the 32-year-old defendant who is charged with shooting his estranged wife, Gladys, in her Yardley home June 28 while she was seated in the living room watching a TV show and holding a small child in her lap.

Goodwyn, who tried to kill himself, is represented by I. Louis Rubin, and District Attorney Willard S. Curtin is prosecuting the case for the Commonwealth.

Edgely Gathering Hails Township GOP Candidates

Record of Party In County Cited By Satterthwaite

The Bristol township Republican slate in the Tuesday elections, as well as Bucks County and statewide candidates, was heartily indorsed by Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite last night at a rally in Edgely Fire House.

Before a crowd of 200, Judge Satterthwaite cited the achievements of a Republican administration in Bucks County as worth continuing in office.

"Because of the history of our party in Bucks County," the Judge said, "I think we can safely rely on our candidates selected locally, countywide and statewide. I can whole-heartedly recommend them to you because I have confidence in the way they were selected."

King Is Speaker

Judge Satterthwaite, appointed two years ago when a third judge was authorized for Bucks County, is seeking election to a 10-year term, unopposed. He introduced Republican candidates for the county offices.

Another speaker was Congressman Karl C. King, of Falls township, who emphasized the importance of the current election.

"Local elections in so-called off years represent democracy at work," the congresman said. "It takes good local and county government to have a good solid basis for federal government."

Eisenhower Praised

King hailed the achievements of President Dwight D. Eisenhower in his short term of office.

"I want to assure you that the Republicans have every right to be proud of the performance of the Republican administration in Washington," he said. "We took over in the midst of a bad situation.

"Most of the seemingly insolvable problems are ones we inherited from the previous administration. While the Republicans have been in power a short time, a great deal has been accomplished."

Master of ceremonies was J. Leslie Kilcoyne, Bristol attorney, and Bristol township Republican leader. Kilcoyne called on Senator Edward B. Watson, newly-named head of the Bucks County Republican committee, who introduced the county slate.

The Bristol township candidates were each presented to the party members by Kilcoyne.

'Gestapo Tactics' At Civic Meeting Flayed by Board

Three separate and explosive broadsides were fired by directors of the Levittown Civic Association at a meeting in Levittown Civic Center last night.

A Bristol township policeman was accused of "Gestapo tactics" at the Oct. 20 meeting of the Civic Association in telling members their cars were illegally parked; William J. Levitt was accused of "tar and feather language" in his blast against Duke Sloan at the meeting, and Bristol township school officials were accused of top secrecy in what was apparently a PTA organiation meeting.

In a letter drafted last week by the LCA executive board and approved last night President George Sottung, of Bristol township commissioners and Police Commisioner Oscar Booz were asked to take stern action against the accused officer, Richard Templeton.

"The meeting (Oct. 20) was progressing in its usual orderly fashion," the letter stated, "when suddenly down the hall (at Edgely Fire House) strode (Templeton). With no respect for the dignity of the meeting or of the people assembled, he announced that certain cars . . . should be moved at once or else."

Officer Returns

That the owners apparently did not obey the officer's order is indicated in the following passage of the letter: "Not having been rude enough, he returned a short time later and made a similar announcement.

"No one would deny the right of the officer to do his duty," the letter continued, "but neither can the unbecoming conduct of this officer in performing his duty be condoned.

"People in America do not condone the tactics of a Gestapo.

"We believe that the officer, Richard Templeton, should be reprimanded severely for the manner in which he obviously saw fit to perform his duty."

Criticizing Levitt for his behavior Oct. 20 was Director Norvin Nathan, of 41 Fireside lane. Nathan recalled Levitt's tirade, in which the builder condemned Duke Sloan as a critic of Levittown and alegedly said Sloan should be run out of town.

Preparing to introduce a resolution demanding an apology from Levitt for the language he used,

Homeward Bound, Sees Crack Train Demolish His Auto

While a helpless owner looked on, the crack Crusader passenger train of the Reading Railroad demolished his stalled 1953 convertible on an unprotected crossing near Woodbourne last night.

The automobile belonged to Oscar Horton, 26, of 310 West Richardson avenue, Langhorne.

He told Middletown Township Police Chief Howard C. Shook that he was returning from work about 7 p. m. when his automobile stalled on the crossing. He said his brakes had failed and the car swept onto the tracks.

Horton said he tried to push the car off the crossing, when he heard the whistle of a westbound train approaching. He had no alternative but seek safety. The train engineer tried to stop but failed. As Horton watched the engine cut the car cleanly in two, dragging the front half for a distance of one quarter of a mile.

Louis Silcott, engineer of the train, said he was travelling 75 miles an hour when the car came into view. He applied the brakes, but the 1000 feet distance was too short to negotiate braking.

The front half of the automobile, dragging beneath the train, tore up the adjacent track and damaged two switches. The rear end of the car remained at the crossing. Horton was unhurt.

The window was painted by Pennsbury High School students, Marge Fergerson and Carol Keichtly.

CIVIL DEFENSE CHIEF RAPS HULMEVILLE LAXITY

"If Hulmeville wants a Civil Defense unit it will have to do better in signing up for membership and in attending meetings," said John Egly, civil defense head in Hulmeville.

"Only five out of thirty-one members attended last night's meeting," he reported. "The people here don't seem to realize the seriousness of present day conditions."

N. Y. Rabbi Named Principal of New evittown School

The Levittown Jewish Center, conservative synagogue, announced that Rabbi Burton Cohen of New York City will be principal of its recently opened Hebrew School.

Rabbi Cohen has been associated with Rabbi Seymour Fox in the work of the synagogue, particularly during the recent high holy day services.

Hebrew classes have been meeting at the Levittown Civic Center (Watts House) on Mondays and Wednesdays from 5 to 6:30 p. m. and from 6:30 to 8 p. m. with four classes being held each day. The classes will soon be transferred to the newly - acquired administrative headquarters of the synagogue at 202 Willow Drive. Rabbi Cohen and Mrs. Judith Lockwood will handle the teaching assignments.

Friday night services of the Levittown Jewish Center will be held in honor of Edward Weiser, who recently returned home from a tour of duty with the armed forces in Korea. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weiser, 14 Little lane, and has two battle stars to his credit as a result of combat service in Korea.

Services of the congregation are held at 8:30 p. m. in William Penn Center, Fallsington. Rabbi Seymour Fox will officiate and an Oneg Shebat will be served at the conclusion of prayers. Attendance is not limited to congregational membership.

Nathan said the builder's remarks "were apparently used in a dispute with . . ."

Flagged Down

Chairman Gordon Bretschneider rapped down his gavel before Nathan could say "Duke Sloan," and said President Edward Hough had ruled that no personal disputes were to come to the floor.

Explaining that his remarks were to introduce a resolution, Nathan regained the floor and continued: "There was a pattern of conduct set for that night in the use of language. Tar and feather language was used.

"The fact that it was used by a big man does not release him from censure." Nathan said the issue was not Levitt vs. Sloan but rather "whether Levittown is to be a civilized community in which disputes are to be aired on their merits and not one in which the disputants won their points by setting neighbor against neighbor.

"Levittown is at a crossroads," Nathan said, "at which we can choose the direction of intelligent, dispassionate civic action or the direction of emotional, violent hysteria." He said his resolution was "an attempt to get all of us clear on the pattern of decency as a standard of conduct in our town which will disappear if Levitt's inflammatory words are allowed to pass without censure."

Asks Resolution

Nathan moved that the directors resolve "That this Civic Association condemns the use of such inflammatory language and calls upon Mr. William Levitt to make public apology therefor." Bretschneider ruled the motion out of order, but an overwhelming proportio nof the board voted to overrule their chairman.

When brought to a vote, however, the measure was defeated, with only Nathan and Director Jules Levin voting affirmatively.

The "secret" PTA confab was exposed by Director Joseph A. Hitov, of 18 Glenwood lane, who said an administrative school official of Bristol township called 16 mothers to a secret conference Friday at Wistar Institute.

"There was an awful amount of secrecy about it," Hitov said. "They seemed to be frightened.

"Apparently the purpose of this meeting was to organize a PTA. We feel a PTA should be named by the people. A temporary chairman was appointed. We feel the chairman should be appointed by the group. I think it is a dangerous trend."

Seeks to Oppose

Hitov moved that the directors go on record as opposed to undercover maneuvers by any municipalities or subdivisions.

His motion was referred to the education committee.

Hitov said he discussed the meeting with several women who had attended. "It leaked out by mistake," he said. "One woman boasted that she was invited to a 'secret' meeting."

Ulrich Frank, chairman of the education committee, said he was aware of the meeting. "This, if it is anything," Frank said, "is a war between two groups. Last night this was taken up in the education committee. We propose to get the information first hand."

Sum Appropriated

In response to a request by Frank on behalf of his wife, president of the Provisional League of Women Voters of Bristol Township, the directors allotted $40 as co-sponsors of voters guides published by the league for Tullytown and Falls and Bristol townships. A total of 1400 copies were printed, and will be distributed at the Levittown Shopping Center.

Treasurer Ralph Jones, of the Civic Association, reported that the officers' dinner-dance, held Saturday at Pennsbury Inn, was a success, with 23 couples present. A trio of Levittowners, directed by Joseph Grabowski, furnished music.

Hough named two new directors from North Park, Joseph Delate, of Neptune lane, and Donald Smith, New Schoolhouse lane.

in order to transfer the land into Bristol township.

The Bristol township commissioners have anounced their willingness to accept the annexation of several tracts in the Middletown township area. George Sottung, president of the Bristol township board of commissioners, said Levitt had made the offer to the commissioners only on the condition of annexation.

In reply to Judge Hiram H. Keller's recent decision rejecting a boundary plan for Bristol and Falls townships and Tullytown borough, Myers said that "it has no connection with Levitt's proposal of annexation."

'Proceeding Legal'

"Our annexation proceedings in Middletown township are legal and can be achieved under process of law," Myers said. "If 51 percent of the property owners of a certain area in a second class township sign a petition asking a first class township to annex their land then the court will determine whether or not it is in the public interest."

Myers admitted that the proposed annexation was connected with the coming election in Middletown township.

Rains Fail to Fill Wells But Assure Opening of Hunting

Last night's rains improved the lot of Bucks County farmers as far as crops are concerned, but there has not been enough rain to fill up wells that have been drying out, Assistant County Agent Paul Rothrock said today.

The Trenton weather bureau reported a rainfall of 1.38 inches since yesterday and a total for the month of 2.47 inches which is "pretty close to normal."

Pennsylvania State Game Commission indicated small game season will open as scheduled Saturday if rainfall is as general and generous as forecast by the U. S. Weather Bureau. Indications are for "light to moderate" rains.

Rothrock said the rains will help plantings of winter wheat and barley to get a good start so that the crops will be established before freezing weather sets in. Prior to the rains much of the grain had not germinated or had germinated very slowly. The rains will also aid spinach crops in Lower Bucks he said.

However, much more rain will be needd before there is sufficient water to build up dwindling supplies in wells, Rothrock stated.

Trenton weathermen said there would be continued showers today, though clearing tonight. Tomorrow should be fair and cool with the possibility of more rain over the week-end, it was reported.

Teachers To Meet With School Chief On Class Methods

Staff members of the Tullytown Elementary Schools will meet with Dr. Paul Gruber, Bucks County assistant superintendent of schools, tomorrow for a two-hour conference.

From 4 to 6 p. m., the seven teachers will discuss with Dr. Gruber, who is also a consultant in the field of science, "Methods and Materials for teaching Science and Social Studies."

John S. Linscott, Jr., supervisor of the Tullytown schools, revealed that such in-service teacher training meetings will be continued throughout the year. Next on the program of in-service training is Nancy Herr, Bucks County consultant in speech correction. She will be in the Tullytown schools next Wednesday, and will examine those children needing assistance.

Dr. Ruth Fedder, county consultant for exceptional children and psychological testing and guidance, will visit the schools Monday, Nov. 9.

Othe scheduled study-group sessions will include parent conferences, audio-visual aids, community resources, field trips and pupil-teacher planning.

Obituary

MRS. THOMAS JACKSON

Born here 88 years ago, Mrs. Harriet C. Jackson, widow of Thomas Jackson, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Russell Arrison, 560 Bath street. The deceased was the daughter of the late Benjamin L. and Sarah Louderbough. She had resided here throughout her life-time.

Mrs. Jackson, who had been ill for some time, was a member of Bristol Methodist Church.

Her survivors include her daughter, Mrs. Arrison; a son, Walter Jackson, Hulmeville; six grandchildren, six great grandchildren, and three great, great grandchildren.

The Rev. Ralph Proud, Jr., pastor of Bristol Methodist Church, will conduct service at two p. m. Friday at the funeral home of John C. Black, 314 Cedar street, with burial being made in Bristol Cemetery. Friends may call Thursday evening.

MRS. BESSIE M. ESCARSEGA

A resident of Bristol for 25 years, Mrs. Bessie M. Escarsega, 442 Pond street, died yesterday morning after a brief illness.

Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Richard Nicholas, Mrs. Jennie Roberts, Philadelphia; several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday, 1:30 p. m., in Bethel A. M. E. Church, Wood street. Friends are invited to call at the church Thursday evening. Interment will be in Bristol Cemetery under the direction of George Molden and Son.

Tullytown Census Linked With Plea For Liquor License

Tullytown Borough Councilmen may meet tomorrow to discuss further a request for a census to determine whether another taproom may be licensed in the borough.

Nicholas Eberle, president of borough council, said councilmen received a request for the count at a previous council meeting. It came from Attorney Isaac L. Rubin, of Bristol, representing an unidentified client.

Eberle said at present there is one establishment in the borough licensed to sell liquor. "I think there are enough people in the borough to permit another liquor license, but we have to make an official count," he said. One liquor establishment may be set up for each 1,000 population, he stated.

Councilmen will decide whether there is any obligation on the borough to make the requested count. Eberle said he may meet with the council tomorrow on the matter.

It was indicated the proposed liquor place may be established in Levittown Shopping Center.

DRUNK DRIVER FINED

DOYLESTOWN — Burton G. Scott, Jr., 178 Nottingham Way, Trenton, N. J., who pleaded guilty to drunken driving, was sentenced by President Judge Keller to pay a $200 fine and the costs of prosecution. Interstate Bridge Policeman Leon Dillion arrested the defendant June 9 at Lower Bridge and East Bridge streets, Morrisville.

Truck and Driver Plunge Off Road

A truck and driver yesterday plunged over a 12-foot embankment when the driver lost control of his vehicle while he attempted to turn on his windshield wipers on Route 13 near Mill Creek road.

The driver, William F. Dunn, 27, of 27 Prospect avenue, Wilkes-Barre, was uninjured, and his truck, owned by Biddle Company, 19 Heil avenue, Trenton, ripped through 50 feet of guard rail before dropping off the embankment.

Falls Township Police Joseph Ruski, who investigated the accident, said the driver said he was travelling at the rate of 25 miles per hour when the accident occurred. Ruski said a further investigation of the accident would be made by the police department to determine the cause.

Drunken Driving Charges Heard

Harry Campbell, 330 Cleveland street, Bristol, had a hearing yesterday afternoon, before Justice of the Peace Edward Lynn, on charges of drunken driving, Bristol Borough Poljce said today. Campbell will be held for the next session of criminal court, police said.

Campbell's car was demolished last week, after an accident involving two parked cars on Otter street. Also damaged in the collision were automobiles belonging to Joseph R. Simmons and Howard J. Kirk, both of 561 Otter street.

Presbyterians Vote For Change in Name For Edgely Church

A decision has been reached by members of Pilgrim Presbyterian Church, Edgely, to change the name of their church to First Presbyterian Church, Levittown, subject to approval by the Presbytery. A new church is now in course of erection at the corner of Green lane and Emilie road, Levittown.

The proposed budget for 1954, was accepted at congregational meeting Sunday.

Present membership is 187, with 106 families represented.

Members Accepted

A large number of new members was accepted into the church Sunday, including:

On confession of faith: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammell; on reaffirmation of faith: Mr. and Mrs. David Struble, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Ewing; transfer of letter: Mr. and Mrs. William Matthiessen, Hope Presbyterian, Phila.; Mr. and Mrs. John Jessup, North Congregational, Woodbury, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Lamont, First Presbyterian, Coatesville; Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Gates, Newtown Presbyterian; Mr. and Mrs. William Marme, Faith Reformed, Phila.; Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hemperly, Fain Presbyterian, Wichita Falls, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wilson, J. R. Miller Presbyterian, Upper Darby.

Hallowe'en Party

The young people held a Hallowe'en party Saturday in the social room. A ghost, impersonated by Thomas Brown, greeted guests and escorted them through the "Chambers of Horrors", before they joined the group.

Those awarded prizes for costumes were Gail Mannherz, Valerie Hibbs and Tommy Krouze.

Winners of games included "Tommy" Kaechelin and Gail Mannherz for the corn cob swing; Bob Maskrey for poison pumpkin; Kathy Brown, Billy Moyer and John Frake for apple on the string. A scavenger hunt was scheduled but was cancelled by rain. Cider, doughtnuts and ginger snaps were served to 22. Adult supervision included the Rev. Robert Thomson and "Jack" Bier.

Appeal For Clothes

During the Sunday morning service an appeal was made by the pastor for the Presbyterian Home for Widows and Single Woman, Phila., for bed clothes, linens and clothing. The women lost all their possessions in a fire last week. The Rev. Mr. Thomson and Mrs. Clarence Kay, representing the Pilgrim Missionary Society, took articles received to Philadelphia on Monday.

Hallowe'en Collection

Girl Scout Sunday was observered in Sunday school and church last Sunday.

Members of the Junior department of the Sunday school will collect sewing articles, soap and clothing on Hallowe'en. These articles will be sent to the American Friends Service Committee for shipment to overseas families. Residents of Edgely and Levittown have been asked to cooperate in this project.

The kindergarten and nursery department of the Sunday School will hold a Hallowe'en party in the social room at 1:30 p. m. Saturday.

FEASTERVILLE MAN NAMED POLICE OFFICER

John A. Wagner, 36, of Lindberg avenue, Feasterville, was named fulltime police officer for Lower Southampton Township, Phineas P. Ross, township secretary said today. The appointment is effective Nov. 1.

Constable Charles Beanfi of Oakford, was named part-time police officer effective the same date.

This brings the township's police department up to three full-time officers including Chief Edward Wunsch, and two part-time officers.

Peace Pipe Passed On To New Croydon Cubmaster

A meeting of pack No. 69, Cub Scouts of Croydon, was held Oct. 21, in Croydon Scout cabin. Cubmaster Joseph Wojcek was in charge.

The theme of the month is "Indian Summer." In conjunction with this, each den staged a skit or Indian dance. They made their headdresses, war shields and yawa sticks. One den had an Indian teepee and a stage with hand-painted Indian scenery.

Frank Castor, assistant cub master, gave a talk on Indian sign language, which had been taught him at the den-chiefs conference at Camp Ockanickon.

Badges were awarded. Three boys were accepted into the pack.

Joseph Wojcek is resigning as cubmaster to attend school. He, in Indian fashion, turned his post over to the new cub-master, Andrew Dickinson, by presenting him with a peace pipe.

Den 4 won the achievement award.

A trip is planned to the aquarium and Museum of Natural Science, Phila., Nov. 7th. Raymond Marshall and Miss Elizabeth Scott attended the roundtable at Christ Church, Eddington, Oct. 21 as representatives of pack 69.

FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A BUCKS COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

The Board of Directors of The Lower Bucks County Hospital At A Meeting Held October 22, 1953, Passed The Following Resolution:

"WHEREAS, the dynamic growth we are experiencing in Bucks County creates a serious problem of protecting the health of all of our citizens; a problem which cannot always be solved at township and borough levels; and

WHEREAS, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, recognizing that the State Department of Health was too far removed from the county to fully understand and cope with local health problems, passed legislation of 1951 encouraging the formation of county health departments; and

WHEREAS, We have this great opportunity to improve and protect the health of Bucks County residents through a well directed effort to eliminate the dangers of pollution of water supply, overflowing cesspools, open dumping of raw garbage, contaminated eating establishments, unsanitary trailer parks, rapid spread of communicable disease, and other health and accident hazards.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Board of Directors of the Lower Bucks County hospital enthusiastically endorses the establishment of a Bucks County Department of Health and urges all qualified voters of Bucks County to vote YES for its authorization in the general election on November 3, 1953."

From the very beginning, telephone people have never been satisfied with service "as is." They have constantly found ways to do a better job and hold costs down. Cable that will carry more calls at one time. Switchboards that are easier to operate. Faster, better ways to build wire and cable lines. Smaller and stronger telephone equipment.

You can be sure of this: once we have found a better way to do a job, the new way soon becomes the regular way. This is your assurance that telephone service will always continue to improve in quality and remain low in cost.

'Tinder Box' Will Delight Children

The stage of the Bensalem high school auditorium will be the scene of another story brought to life by The Salome Gaynor Theatre for Children, Tuesday, November 3rd.

The production is given under sponsorship of Cornwells Parent-Teacher Association.

"The Tinder Box" is one of the many delightful children's stories from the pen of Hans Christian Andersen. It deals with the problems encountered by a soldier whose willingness to earn a rich reward for doing a favor brings him to dealing with three unbelievable dogs and a mysterious tinder box. All of these play a prominent part in getting him a princess who has been shut away from the world to prevent her predicted marriage to a common soldier.

"The Tinder Box" will be presented by a company of professional adult actors, in authentic and colorful costuming of the period in which the tale is told.

The children of Bensalem Township will thus be given opportunity to spend an hour and a half in the land of make-believe.

'Crossing' Church Plans To Expand

WASHINGTON CROSSING, Oct. 28—A two floor annex, to cost $19,000, has been approved for Washington Crossing Methodist Church.

This is the church where for several months Leutze's famous painting of "Washington Crossing the Delaware" (on loan from a New York gallery) has been on display and viewed by thousands of people.

Sunday School rooms, recreational facilities, dining-room, kitchen, rest rooms, will be included in the new addition.

Construction is scheduled to start within a month.

The contract has been awarded to Charles L. Copper. The architect is Nelson Whitehead, Yardley.

Joseph G. Park, Watson P. Church, Paul Sked and Charles L. Copper form the building committee.

The pastor of the church is the Rev. Harold Hallam.

Blame Dummy In Fire at Phila. Clothing Store

PHILADELPHIA, (INS) — Some dummy set fire to a south Philadelphia clothing store.

Police said a thief broke a window and stripped a man's suit of clothes from a mannequin.

In making his hasty exit, the burglar knocked over another dummy which fell on a spotlight, and the heat from the light ignited a top coat draped around it.

Famous Autographs Soon To Be Shown

By Inez Robb

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 — (INS) — Lives of great men all remind us that most of them left autographs of varying legibility and value to posterity.

A really unique and valuable collection of such autographs, confined to the face of a small parchment and sandalwood fan and scribbled by some of the world's greatest musical geniuses, is soon to go on exhibition for sweet charity's sake.

The autographs of such legendary composers as Johannes Brahms, Charles Gounod, Pietro Mascagni, Jules Massenet, Guiseppe Verdi, Camille Saint-Saens, Peter Tchaikowski, Edward Elgar, Edward Grieg and Anton Rubinstein dot their T's and cross their I's side by side.

Scrawled across the delicate parchment are the signatures of such legendary performers as Enrico Caruso, Leopold Auer, Hans Van Bulow, Leopold Godowski, Ignace Pederewski, both Edouard and Jean De Reszke, Jacques Thibaud and Marcella Sembrich.

Fritz Kreisler, Arturo Toscanini, Mischa Elman, Joseph Hofmann, Pablo Casals and Rudolph Ganz are among the famous musicians still performing who signed the fan long ago.

So long ago, in fact, that pianist Joseph Hofmann, now 76, was an "infant" prodigy of 14 when he wrote his signature near that of the majestic genius, Brahms. Perhaps overcome by that juxtaposition, the pianist inscribed himself "Little Joseph Hofmann."

The fan, with its 84 autographs, is now the property of Mme. Louisa Stojowski, concert pianist and widow of Sigismond Stojowski, Polish pianist, composer, teacher and favorite pupil of Paderewski.

Orginally, the fan was the property and the autographs the idea of Mme. Stojowski's mother-in-law, Countess Marie Jordon-Stojowski. The countess was a dashing lady with great, liquid black eyes who maintained a musical salon in Paris in the Elegant Eighties and Gay Nineties when her son was studying piano in the French capital.

"I wish I knew the history of all the signatures. But I don't," Mme. Stojowski said regretfully. "I wasn't even born when most of them were inscribed on the fan.

"I do remember, however, my husband telling me how upset his mother was when Brahms insisted that the fan be left with him a few days while he studied and autographed it. By this time, the fan had many autographs and my mother-in-law thought it much too valuable to be left with a hair-brained composer!

"However, the fan came home intact, not only with Brahm's signature, but with two bars of music just above it."

Mme. Stojowski has delightful memories of Paderewski, who was not only her husband's teacher, but their friend and the godfather of their second son. Paderewski, after hearing Mme. Stojowski, then in her 'teens, play in 1913, sent her to Stojowski to study, and felt himself a great matchmaker.

"Paderewski must have signed the fan 40 years ago. But he loved his little jokes," Mme. Stojowski said, "and you will notice that after his signature is the date 'March 22, 1945, in the neighborhood of Pekin.' Paderewski died in 1944, and he autographed the fan in Paris."

The fan has been loaned by Mme. Stojowski, who has just returned from a concert tour of England, to the committee of the fan ball, which is given annually at the Plaza Hotel for the Children's Memorial Cancer Fund.

Mme. Stojowski has no idea what the fan is worth Toscanini's signature is up-side down; Van Bulow signed himself "The Decaying Celebrity." But she was refused an offer for it from the Library of Congress.

Letters To The Editor

Thank You!

TO THE EDITOR:

I wish to thank you and your staff for the thoughtfulness in sending me pictures which appeared in your 'Meet Your Neighbor' edition.

I also wish to congratulate you on the great improvement of your daily paper which has risen in my estimation from a strictly country sheet to a full scale newspaper in a very short time.

Having worked around in and out of your place of business more or less all summer I know somewhat of the turmoils and headaches you have had and can more fully appreciate what you have accomplished than most people.

Wishing you much more success in your endeavors ...

Hits The Law

TO THE EDITOR:

Why are the police quizzing little childrer only six or seven-years-old about the damage done to the Wistar Institute. How could such small children have broken windows and stolen things. And the worst part is the children make up all kinds of stories when the police question them.

They're too young to realize they may be implicating themselves. You know what imaginations children have. The police should know better and should leave the kids alone.

A Parent.

Doesn't Like Cats

TO THE EDITOR:

Why can't people keep their cats on a leash or locked up somewhere?

Just the other day I was driving over Green lane in my new 1953 automobile when one of these horrid little creatures dashed itself against my right front fender.

Of course the animal was killed, but that is not the point. My car sustained a severe dent — it cost me $15 to have it repaired. Of course, the owner was hiding somewhere so that he would not have to pay for the damages.

Who's responsible? He is. He should have kept the animal indoors where it belonged.

Steel Output Holds Around 95 Percent

CLEVELAND, (INS) — Steel Magazine said today that steel production is riding high.

The trade journal reported that after holding steady at a 95 per cent of capacity rate all this month, the production rate edged up to 95.5 per cent in the week ended Oct. 24.

"There is no reason to expect the rate to drop below 95 per cent in the one remaining week of the month." Steel said.

"While the current 95 per cent rate might at first glance appear low when compared with the 106.6 per cent average for October of last year, a rate of 95 per cent today yields almost as much steel as the 106.6 per cent rate last October."

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—

(Staff Memo to: Fulton Lewis, Jr., From: Russ Turner.)

You may be interested in a further prize example of how the Eisenhower administration is allowing New Deal Democrats to retain top government jobs, instead of replacing them with people who at least think along the same general lines as the Republican administration is suposed to think.

This one concerns William E. Warne, who for two years has been Iranian Director of the Technical Cooperation Administration—the Point Four program. It strikes my fancy particularly because I've known Bill Warne since 1934 and his background is strictly political, not in the slightest bit technical.

LEWIS, JR.

I had heard this summer that he was about to come back from Tehran, had resigned and was being replaced there. To my surprise, however, I happened to read a recent New York Times story about another $4,700,000 payment being made to Iran for emergency financial aid, and it said the check was turned over to the Iranian finance minister by "William E. Warne, Director of the Technical Cooperation Program in Iran."

I put a query in with Harold Stassen's Foreign Operations Administration, which runs TCA, and finally got this answer: "Yes, Mr. Warne is still in Iran and as far as we know will stay there. We find no indication that he intends to resign or that we intend to replace him."

Bill Warne is a newspaperman-turned-bureaucrat who got this appointment as a reward for having done a good New Deal propaganda job. Why he should be retained by the Republican administration is completely beyond me.

He first came to Washington with the Associated Press in 1933 as California regional man, which meant he was supposed to cover Washington for any items which would be of local interest to AP papers in that state.

In those days, I was a cub reporter for the United Press, sort of a third man-copyboy on their three-man House staff. Among other things, I was supposed to specialize on congressmen from a few states—including California—where AP-UP competition was particularly tough, to try to keep up with the AP on regional items.

I first ran into Bill Warne in that connection. He was a good run-of-the-mine reporter, but far from any ball of fire; I also covered the House for Nebraskaa, Michigan and some other states on a regional basis and did general work too, but I managed occasionaly to ring up California scoops which brought call-backs to Bill.

He left the AP in 1935 for a job in the Reclamation Bureau's information section, which he headed from 1937 to 1942. Then in quick succession, he served as Assistant Director of Interior's Power Division, Director of Information for the Department, and Assistant Commissioner of Reclamation. In 1947 he was named Assistant Secretary of Interior, and in 1951 he was promoted to Iran.

So his technical qualifications to be Point Four Director in Iran or anywhere else are nil. The well-based asumption around the National Press Club long has been that Bill rose to his lofty eminence as a protege of one of the most "liberal" of all New Deal propagandists. Mike Straus, who was Harold Ickes' right hand for many years.

In short, here is a man whose entire record has been that of a "liberal" propagandist; a man who has no technical training whatsoever; a man whose entire philosophy and thinking obviously is New Deal.

He is representing the United States in a country which is vitally important to us because of its oil deposits, and which we are trying to help because of its recent and continuing internal difficulties. His job is a combination of the technical and the diplomatic; he has no background for either.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

ANOTHER HOOVER DRIVE

Washington, Oct. 27.

The inevitable end of a form of government based on universal, unrestricted suffrage for many millions of people is chaos. This penetrating comment on the United States was made more than a hundred years ago by a great French writer—de Toqueville. The resasoning behind his conclusion is clear.

For one thing, the greater the voting population the greater the power of the ignorant and prejudiced. As the country grows, the intelligent and informed voters become more and more in the minority. This situation encourages and offers opportunity for the shallow demagogues to take over control. Thus, the governmental machinery is extravagently expanded, bureaus and commissions pile up duplication, waste and confusion follow.

Considering the vast size of our Federal bureaucracy, and the huge expenditures entailed, few informed persons will argue that we have not been rapidly approaching chaos in the last two decades. Nor will many dispute that, unchecked, we very soon would be going over the brink. This being so, it seems worth while to recite again the facts about the progress made by the only agency which, from the beginning, has made a serious effort to check the downward trend, restore order and sense in the governmental structure and reduce it to manageable proportions. This, of course is the Hoover Commission on the Reorganization of the Executive Branch of the Government.

Recently the Citizens' Committee for the Hoover Report, a private nonprofit, nonpartisan group formed to build up public interest in and to support the recommendations of the Hoover Commission, of which ex-President Herbert Hoover is chairman, made public the final survey of its work for the last three years. This shows that 72 per cent of the commission's recommendations for more efficient and economic administration have been wholly or partly put into effect.

Of the 273 specific proposals made by the commission, 116 (or 43 per cent) have been completely adopted, 35 "mostly" adopted and 45 "partly" adopted. The contention of the committee is that when the reforms already adopted are functioning fully they will effect an annual saving of $4,000,000,000. This does not take into account the intangible gains from greater efficiency. Nor does it allow for the Hoover recommendations that have thus far failed but to enact which a very determined drive, supported by President Eisenhower, will be made at the next session of Congress. Mr. Clarence Francis, of New York, has just been elected chairman of the Citizens Committee. Among the unadopted recommendations are reorganization of the postal service so as to eliminate politics, reorganization of the Veterans Administration, reorganization of the Federal medical services and reorganization of the agencies dealing with natural resources and public lands.

In addition, a new Hoover Commission has been established with an even broader field than the old one had. Mr. Hoover is again at the head of the commission and its nonpartisian character has been preserved. The new Hoover Commission will be better equipped by experience than the old one and it is reasonable to expect fully as good—if not better—performance. The outlook is made especially promising by the selection of Mr. John B. Hollister, of Cincinnati, as its practical director in Washington.

Mr. Holister succeeded the late Nicholas Longworth in the House of Representatives and served several terms with ability and distinction. He has many friends in both House and Senate and knows legislative procedure as well as any man in the country. With a wide acquaintance in and out of Congress, he is popular, well informed and competent.

Today's Quiet Moment

By The Rev. Gerald Ellison
Pastor
Woodside Presbyterian Church

My Proposal

Do I propose to devote my life to God and His glory? Reason informs me that I am not compelled to. My heart informs me that I desire to do so.

The uninvited thought is however, if I do devote my life to the cause and purpose of God it means that He is to be honored, admired and obeyed. In other words I must spend and be spent not for myself but for Him.

It is difficult for me to see how my manner of life is to be different from that of my Lord's life. It is true that the cross stands behind me. Christ has already died and rose again. The victory has been won. However at the same time the cross shines brilliantly before me. For no Christian marches through life without his Calvary.

Dietrich Bonhoeffer is to have said, "The cross of Christ is laid on every Christian." Any attempt to struggle and flee from the cross is to deny the Saviour who made it the symbol of discipleship to God.

Every morning I am invited by God himself to take up my cross and follow Him. The cross reminds me that I am to deny my own self-interest for the sake of following Him who gives life and life in abundance to all who obey.

Yes, by Thy grace O Lord I propose to surrender my life to Thee who art the captain of my soul. In Thee and in Thee alone do I find both a refuge and strength.

PTA Hears Talk On Dental Health

Mrs. Edwin Mandell presided over a meeting of Croydon Parent-Teacher Association last evening in Croydon school.

Miss Henrietta Schrenk, Croydon, and Mrs. Helen Barber, Langhorne, spent the week-end at New York, N. Y. While there they witnessed a performance of "South Pacific."

Mrs. Lucy Solt, Schwenksville, was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schrenk, Sr., Girard avenue. On Sunday, the Schrenks and their guest, visited Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Schrenk, Chester.

Weissman Chosen For Scoutmaster

Bernard Weissman, 36 Wisteria lane, has been selected as scoutmaster of Levittown's first Boy Scout Troop sponsored by the Brotherhood of the Levittown Jewish Center.

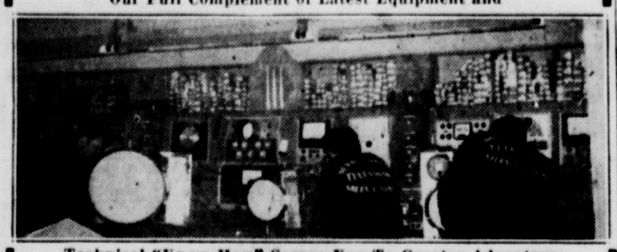

At a recent meeting of the Troop Committee at the home of Harry Brownstein, 8 Pensive lane, the experience of Mr. Weissman in scouting leadership jobs led to his appointment.

Troop registration will be open to all Levittown boys from 11 to 14 on a non-sectarian basis. The enrollment date will be announced in the very near future.

More members for the troop committee are needed, especially parents who will have children in the troop. The present troop committee consists of Brownstein, John Levin, Samuel Galdo, David Harris, Edward Kauffman, Jack Tolchinsky and Robert Goldberg.

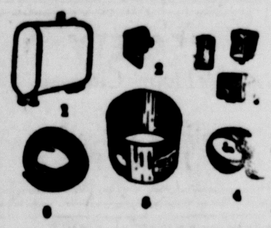

Information may be obtained by calling Brownstein or Weissman.

Here's Good News
For Those Hard Of Hearing
New Tubeless Hearing Aid Eliminates Expensive "B" Battery

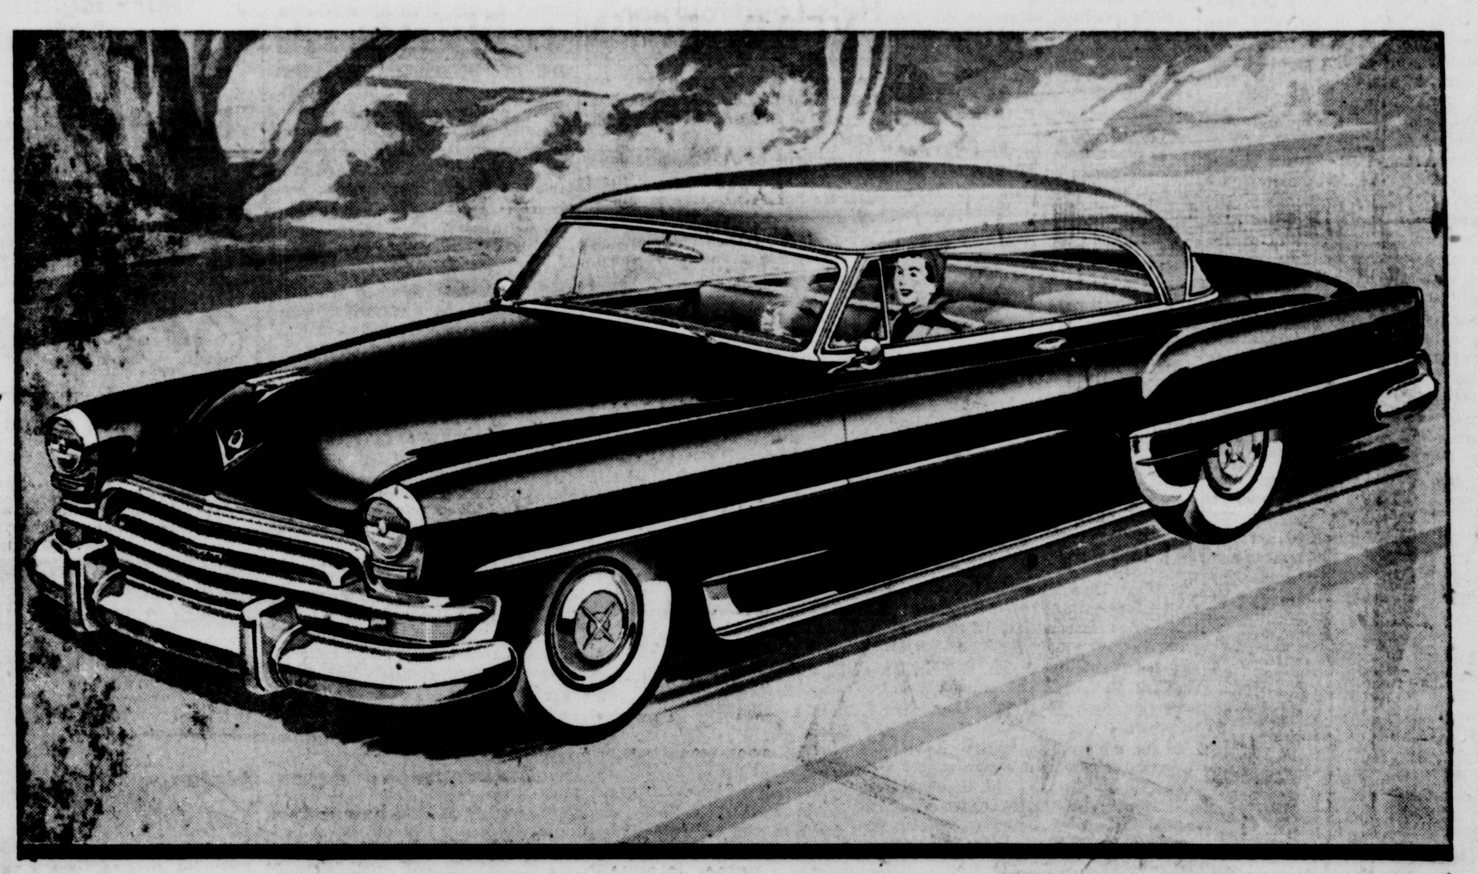

Newest miracle of electronics, the shock-proof, virtually indestructible Transistor, now replaces vacuum tubes and greatly increases electronic efficiency. It's a tiny, almost microscopic speck of germanium crystal embedded in protective plastic. Hardly as large as a grain of corn yet does everything a vacuum tube can do and more.

Beltone engineers have taken advantage of this latest electronics miracle to create an entirely new kind of hearing aid —the Beltone Transistor Model. In this superb instrument, not one single vacuum tube is used —all have been replaced by three tiny transitors.

The Beltone Transistor Model has many other improvement which make it a new and outstanding hearing aid through out. For further information come in, phone, or write for new FREE booklet. W. F. Fernsler Beltone Hearing Service, 120 N. Montgomery St., Trenton, N. J. Phone 2-2473.

with JOE MUCH

THE WORKING PRESS, as a breed, is not celebrated for its tenderness in the handling of athletes at any level. In many instances the gentlemen dispatched to chronicle the collisions of trained muscles are underweight, overweight or otherwise frustrated athletes of other seasons.

As such, they frequently are wont to castigate today's embryonic cardiac cases for their every foible.

In that light the generous acquittal accorded this area's Bob Felver on the occasion of his fluff in the Penn-Navy skirmish last Saturday qualifies as a new look in sportswriting. To these eyes, at least, it is a pleasing one.

Were the faux pas not emblazoned across the pages of metropolitan newspapers and perhaps preserved in celluloid for the consumption of movie house audiences from here to yonder, we would hesitate to recall the episode. As it is, it is resurrecting no skeleton to recall that Felver passed for a Navy touchdown Saturday. The consideration that sophomore Bob was playing for Penn makes the play extraordinary.

PENN, TO THE surprise of almost everybody, had man-eating Navy under thumb, 6-0, at the time. Indeed the brash young Penns were grinding in the right direction again when Felver, back to pass, got himself involved with more Tars than a seaport floosie.

Bob, hankering for elbow room, cast his lot with discretion and retreated from deep Navy terrain to near midfield. There a chap named John Riester of Navy began pawing Felver's haberdashery. The two tumbled in a heap of shoulder pads and rib guards.

As he fell, Felver gave the football a sideways flip, perhaps attempting to ground a pass. Here, another Navy, End John Hopkins, cruised along, grabbed the ball and fled. It was a six-all ball game.

Happily for Felver a friendly combatant named Eddie Gramigna took him off the hook by booting a game-winning field goal before they pulled the teams apart.

PERHAPS SOFTENED by the upset victory and impressed by the gallantry that fetched Penn one of the year's major football upsets, the press rallied rapidly around our Robert. City writers took time out to contemplate the motivation behind Felver's act and decided that he had elected to ground the pass intentionally instead of absorbing the loss. He had no knowledge, they reckoned, of a new rule that calls for penalty from the spot of the foul rather than the old 15-length assessment.

At any rate, opined the press, Felver had earned the license to err by exceptional—for a sophomore—play earlier. Even Coach George Munger was eager to forgive his young halfback. "... the mistake hurt for awhile," he wrote, "Others make mistakes, too, but they're usually overlooked. . . . It might be well to point out that young Felver was quite a performer up until he had the mishap. He tried something and that's not bad. I never did like players who give up easy-like."

FOLKS IN THIS neck of the woods will assure Munger that Felver will never give up easy-like. The boy earned a reputation for brilliance in both football and track at Morrisville High and later at Peddie School. He took the brilliance to Penn and it lost none of its effect in freshman football.

This year, along with a limited delegation of former freshman mates, Felver fractured a Penn tradition of long apprenticeships by claiming an important role as a second year man. His popularity off the field was reflected Saturday in student cheers of sympathy directed his way.

Munger, Penn undergrads, and even the barnacled press apparently realize that little could be gained from flogging the fledgling back. Felver has two more years and some 25 or so stern skirmishes to live through at Penn. Odds are he will produce a dozen thrills for every shock he visits upon Quaker well-wishers, and that's a good average in any league.

As we were saying, we like the new look.

Undefeated Juniors Tip Pennsbury, 6-0

Bristol Junior High chalked up its fifth straight Lower Bucks Junior High League triumph yesterday, defeating Pennsbury Junior High, 6-0, on the latter's field. Bristol has one game remaining on its schedule, that with Morrisville next week.

For three quarters, both teams played fine defensive ball with most of the play at mid-field. In the opening minutes of the final quarter, Coach Joe Sagolla's team drove to the Pennsbury two-yard line only to lose the ball on a fumble.

Pennsbury battered back and marched 83 yards to the Bristol 15. At this point, Bob Liberatore intercepted a pass on the goal line and returned the ball to the Bristol 42. Art Mancuso, Fred Straffe, and Al VanWright took turns in carrying the ball to the nine-yard line of the Falcons. Here, Ronnie Murray pitched a pass to Liberatore, who caught it on the two and went over for the score.

Coach Sagolla used the following lineup: Ends, Liberatore and Saxton; tackles, Daniels, Tyrell, and Lomma; guards, Perseponko, Sabol, Delia, and Gosline; center, Binkley; backs, Murray, Mancuso, VanWright and Straffe.

Score by Quarters:

U. S. Jump Teams In Horse Show

HARRISBURG — INS — The United States team will try again today to break into the winner's circle in two individual jumping events highlighting the international competition at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

One event will be held in mid afternoon and the other in the evening.

So far, the English have won three firsts and Ireland one, but the United States and Canadian teams have yet to place on top.

Tuesday night, the Irish team registered its first victory by winning the pair jumping competition with Capt. Michael Tubridy handling "Ballynonty" and Capt. Colm O'Shea aboard "Kilcarne." The winners were charged with but two faults and swung over the course in forty four and one-fifth seconds.

The United States was second, Canada third and England fourth.

FARM DRILL SITE

CINCINNATI, O. — INS — All farm clubs of the Cincinnati Reds except Havana will train at Douglas, Ga. for the next five years.

Manager Gabe Paul notified the home office Tuesday he had signed a contract with city and county officials and the president of South Georgia college. Players will be housed at the college's airport and four new diamonds will be built adjacent to the air field.

THEY NEVER WIN OR LOSE

Finest Football Team? This Is It

The most efficient football team in this area will never win a game nor lose one, if it can help it. Yet the team will take part in three or four times the number of games on an average schedule.

Riddle? No, the team is a crew of five football officials, who work exclusively in a four-man group and keep an alternative standing by. They banded for the sake of efficiency 15 years ago and have never lost sight of their goal.

Three of the quintet have been in the unit since its inception in 1938. They include Henry Morgan, the referee; Joe Diamanti, umpire, and Bill McCoy, head linesman. Over the years they have "used up" four different field judges and have two of them on the squad now.

Michael DeRisi, a Bristol High and West Chester State Teachers College athlete in the late 20's and early 30's, was the team's first field judge. When he moved into the coaching field in New Jersey, the team secured Bob Bauroth, one-time Colgate University standout, as its fourth man. Bauroth moved to Kentucky four years ago, and then there were three again.

New Hand

It was then that Stanley Dick, a native of Edgely, entered the ranks. Dick, a graduate of West Chester, is still with the team, but shares his job with Larry Dougherty, a former Rider College footballer, who signed up as a spare field judge in 1951.

Since Dick is connected as assistant principal with Delhaas High, the team finds it advisable to limit, his engagements in this area in the cause of harmony. For example, Dick will not be assigned a game involving Delhaas or a future Delhaas opponent.

Among them, the pioneers Morgan, Diamanti and McCoy represent some 67 years of football officiating experience. Morgan, president of the Bucks County Chapter, PIAA officials, played basketball at Bloomsburg State Teachers College, where he was graduated in 1931. He has been officiating ever since and currently is in charge of elementary physical education in Bristol Township schools.

Diamanti, affable and outspoken proprietor of Diamond Sporting Goods store in Bristol, is a 1928 Muhlenberg College grad and former football and track performer. He is the team's senior member, both in point of age and service with his 26 years of officiating under his belt. Joe handles bookings for the team, which qualifies as a full-time job in itself for the group covers a tremendous geographic area in Bucks and Montgomery counties and South Jersey.

Cop On Job

McCoy is a peculiarly handy chap by dint of his occupation. He is a sergeant with the Florence Township, N. J., police force. A 1936 grad of North Carolina State, where he lettered in basketball and baseball, the six-foot-plus cop has been calling them for 18 years.

The team idea was Diamanti's. As he explains it, "I thought it was idiotic for me to go out on a Friday or Saturday to officiate a game and run into three referees or four linesmen or the like."

Dynamic Joe figured a team of specialists certainly would be more effective than a heterogeneous group calling them from alien positions. The professional leagues came up with the same team idea, Diamanti points out, but not until ten years later.

There was trouble at the start. It was difficult to convince some schools that they should hire the team rather than hand-picked individuals. It was a matter of selling an idea. Today the staggering number of games worked by the team attests to the salesmanship of the crew.

Pick Their Spots

Picking its spots, the team works everything from junior high to semi-professional and pro games from lower Montgomery county to deep in South Jersey. It is busy almost every day of the week and sometimes handles four or five games on week-ends.

Fees for the services of the team vary greatly, but have little to do with the selection of assignments. Diamanti, who by now can "smell" a good ball game from here to Paulsboro, often rejects the call of the coin to sign his men to a key contest. Surprisingly enough, the team places environment high on its list of qualifications in the selection of games. That is, it likes a good show with color and music and sizeable audiences.

Except for physical contact, and there is no immunity to that, the officiating unit probably is subject to more physical wear and tear than most of the grid teams it handles. That means physical conditioning, an element that draws the team to its own training schedule anywhere from two to six weeks before the season opens.

Six-Week Program

Diamanti, at 48, figures he requires six full weeks of exercising before he is ready to slip into his striped finery. "When the day comes I can't follow the ball, I'll take off the spikes and hang them up," he vows.

The team works on four of its own officiating principles. 1. It has a complete faith in Morgan in the interpretation of rules. 2. Any game, it feels, can be made or broken by the umpire. 3. If duty on the line is divided equally between the head linesman and the umpire, the game can be controlled. And 4. If the field judge does not follow the ball, but rather keeps his attention on the line as it sifts through, efficiency will be attained.

The Team

"Contrary to all the rules of officiating," Diamanti says, "we try to avoid penalties."

By that he means the officials frequently will warn players of technical infractions and nail them for yardage only if the offenders persist.

Human Element

"We try to be human," Joe says, "and use good judgment in controlling a game."

At that, none of the quintet ever will pussyfoot on a call. If a player is caught breaking a rule, he will be told about it on the spot and audibly enough that all hands can hear. This method is impressive both with the fans and the players, who are never left wondering over the nature of the foul or the culprit.

The practice of stern reprimand once left more impression on a player than was intended. Diamanti, several years ago apprehended a Pennsbury lineman in the act of offensive holding. "Number so and so," he bellowed, standing ominously over the warrior, "you're holding and that will cost you 15 yards."

The culprit hung his head and moved reluctantly off the field. Later, the Pennsbury coach approached Diamanti. "Why did you throw so and so out of the game?" he asked.

"Throw him out?" Joe asked, "I didn't throw him out."

Then, approaching the boy, he said, "I didn't throw you out, did I, son?"

"Why, no," the bewildered lad answered, "I guess you didn't."

No "Chickens"

The team sticks with its calls there is a penalty for going "chicken" on a flag-drop. Sometimes even that is embarrassing.

Once in a Palmyra-Haddonfield game in Jersey, Diamanti detected a youngster slugging just before he disappeared under a pile-up. The umpire dropped his flag and announced that number 53 was slugging. When the pile-up dissolved, No. 53 was on the deck, out cold.

Naturally, the boy's coach questioned the call, but the penalty stuck. "The boys was slugging when he went into that pile," Joe says, "and maybe he got slugged back, but we didn't see that."

Because the best of them can get slipshod, the team has its own "bible" of regulations. It lists some two dozen possible infractions by all officials and levies stiff fines for each. After each game the team gets together to assess one another. By a majority vote or by admission any of the four can be found guilty of error.

Kitty For Fines

The group will nail any of its members for everything from poor appearance to too much fraternization to bad decisions. Fine money, which sometimes mounts up over the course of a season, is placed in a kitty. At the end of the year the team decides what will be done with the cash, but it never is returned as such to offenders.

Because the Lower Bucks County League, as a whole, recognizes the efficiency of the team, football in these parts has improved. Diamanti envisions the day when teams will be the rule rather than the exception. Then, maybe his group can take it a little easier.

In the meantime it is going to be a long year for wives of the arbiters Hubby is hardly ever home.

Courier SPORTS

NOT A WORRY

Neshaminy Rests On Ample Laurels

Perish the thought that last Friday's two-point win over Bristol has frightened Neshaminy's unbeaten Redskins into furious drill field action.

The closie had just the opposite effect on Coach Harry Franks, who has called off football in Langhorne for three days. The Redskins, as a reward for their 15th straight triumph and to rest a batch of ailing aces, are taking an extended holiday from the game.

Franks bundled up the whole shebang Monday and took them to a football movie as a sort of busman's holiday. Then he recessed formally until tomorrow afternoon.

That will give the Lower Bucks County League-leading Redskins exactly two days to prepare for a Saturday matinee with Southampton at home. Off the records, that's more than enough time.

Five Straight Losses

Southampton moves in with a string of five straight losses, four of them in the league and three of them at the hands of Neshaminy victims. The Greyhounds, who have had trouble scoring, dropped a 24-0 decision to Bensalem last Saturday. The fact that they held the Owls scoreless in the last half and made one of their largest offensive muscles of the year apparently has given Franks and his contingent little concern.

In fact, the mentor, who says that "about 15" of his players are damaged, hopes to rest most of the regulars in the Saturday scrap. Among the missing may be Ken Kauffman, whose already-injured ankle was massaged again Friday night by the Bristols. League-leading scorer Don Cameron, too, may be called off in the cause of mercy and expediency.

Franks would like to have both of those fellows in the pink for November airings with Jenkintown, Royersford and especially Bensalem.

If the current status quo is unchanged by Thanksgiving, the Redskins will have to discourage Bensalem before dinner in order to enjoy their turkey.

About the Bristol game, Franks parries all questions with the bland: "Did you think it was close? I didn't."

That, of course, is remarkable mind over matter.

Parkway Tightens Lead in Bristol's Major Pin Circuit

Vince Dutcavich rolled an excellent 641 series this week to spark the Rockdale builders to an important 2-1 win over Auto Boys in the Bristol Major Bowling League.

Dutcavich capped off his high triple with a 242 game to win honors in that department for the night. His work and that of his team helped shove the Auto Boys into third place as Parkway Inn remained atop the loop. The Inn team scored a 3-0 sweep over Kaiser Metal Products, while second place Sanitary Disposal defeated St. Ann's A. C., 2-1.

CASTELLANI-LAURENT ON TELEVISION CARD

CLEVELAND — INS — Rocky Castellani—the third ranking middleweight—battles France's Mickey Laurent in a 10-round nationally televised bout at the Cleveland arena tonight.

Castellani feels that an impressive victory over the Frenchman may hasten the day when he gets a crack at Bobo Olson's newly won middleweight crown.

WIN STREAK ON LINE

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — INS — West Virginia, conqueror of 11 straight opponents, places the nation's No. 1 major victory streak on the line Saturday in facing twice-beaten Penn State at State College.

Coach Art Lewis and his Mountainers have been invincible since they lost to Rip Engle's Nittany Lions, 35-21, last season.

National Pin Loop Paced by Cattani; Penndel Team 2nd

Cattani's Beverages posted a 3-0 victory over the lowly Lions last week to preserve its lead in Bristol's National Bowling league. It was the 15th win in 21 games for the Beverage team.

Meanwhile, the Penndel Builders edged Ferri's Nursery, 2-1, to hold onto second pdace.

News of Schools

BRISTOL BOROUGH

Paul Brown, head of the commercial department of Bristol high school, has been chosen by the Commission on Secondary Schools of the Middle States Association to serve on a committee of educators to evaluate the Allentown high school, October 27 to 29.

Others from this area who are serving on the committee are Miss Anna Getz, librarian at Delhaas high school; and Robert L. Durkee, administrative assistant, Central Bucks high school, Doylestown.

BENSALEM HIGH

Today Station WIBG will make a transcription of a radio broadcast of a panel discussion. The topic to be discussed is: "Should the United States Have a Federal Sales Tax?"

Roberta Perry, Bensalem Township High School, Twelfth Grade, Academic section will participate in this discussion. Barbara Gaughler, Twelfth Grade, Academic section, will be Miss Perry's alternate.

Mrs. Emily Christman of the high school faculty is the adviser for this radio broadcast activity.

Treasury Puts Up 2 Billion In Bonds

WASHINGTON, (INS) — The Treasury Department is today offering a two billion dollar bond issue, paying two and three-fourths percent interest.

The new issue, to mature in seven years and 10 months, is expected to bring the government to within three or four million dollars of the public debt limit to 275 billion dollars.

Events For Today

Pinochle party, sponsored by Mothers' Association in Bristol high school cafeteria, 8:30 p.m.

Pinochle party in Terchon Post home, Franklin st., 8:30 p. m. sponsored by Ladies Auxiliary.

New Custodian Is Named for Plaque

Mrs. Ralph Fareno was appointed custodian of the plaque at Cornwells Heights, honoring World War II veterans, when members of the Ladies Auxiliary met in Cornwells Fire Company, No. 1, station Mrs. Farenos' duties will include the placing of flowers at certain seasons, etc. This post was formerly filled by the late Mrs. John Whyte.

Mrs. Harry Miehle presided at the session, with Mrs. Norman Werden reading minutes; and Mrs. Roscoe Perkins presenting report on treasury condition. A donation is to be sent to the "Second Alarmers," Willow Grove.

Members completed plans for a turkey supper to be served Nov. 7th in the new fire station. A Christmas party was also discussed.

Refreshments were served to 14 by Mrs. Albert Schueller, Mrs. Bertha Nelson and Mrs. Werden.

Levittown Players Slate 'Menagerie'

Rehearsals will begin soon for the Levittown Players' production of the Tennessee Williams play, "The Glass Menagerie," Tom Coman, director of the group, announced.

The drama, scheduled for presentation early in December, will be the fourth presentation of the 16-month-old Little Theater group. Coman announced casting for the play as follows: Albert Powell, Tom, the brother; Norman Jacobson, Amanda, the mother; Arlene Goldstone, Laura, the daughter, and Ed Wiler, the gentleman caller.

The group plans to present "Heaven Can Wait," by Harry Segall and Williams' "Summer and Smoke" during the coming months.

"The Male Animal" was the players' first production of the fall season. They have also presented "George Washington Slept Here" and a program of two one-act plays.

Take Your Time in the Tub; Relax and Enjoy Your Bath

Sortilege photo

AN AFTER-BATH LOTION is the last word in daintiness. Its light fragrance provides a good base for the heavier scent of perfume.

By HELEN FOLLETT

BATHS offer relaxation and release from tension. When you are tubbing, don't make a hurried job of it. Enjoy your bath. Take your time.

In selecting bath supplies, soap is the first and most important item. Find one that is bland, does not leave your skin feeling sensitive or drawn. The soap-and-warm-water combination softens the outer skin and removes the dead scales.

Fragrant Bath Salts

Soften the water with fragrant bath salts. Scour yourself with a brush of firm bristles. And don't neglect to do a job on your back. If skin is dry, use a bath oil afterwards.

Keep a scented after-bath lotion handy. Keep it in an atomizer. This is a good time to use it. The flesh is warm and glowing. Spray neck, chest and arms.

Daily Workout

After the bath, do a few exercises. Almost all self-respecting men have a brief daily workout, but most women seem not to realize the wonderful benefits of calesthenics. That old-time stunt of touching the floor without bending the knees is grand for keeping the mid-section trim and youthful.

Try torso twisting. Stand tall, chest high, hands out in front, palms downward. Send both hands to the right, then to the left and so on, pivoting at the waist.

Your Birthday by STELLA

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 28 — Born today, you will have one of those exciting, eventful lives which seems to be adventure-packed. Just how much fame and fortune will be yours is a moot question, for you don't care too much about making a fortune or "succeeding" as the world calls it. All you want to be is busy at something you enjoy doing and "have fun" out of life. You are ready, at the drop of the hat, to go off chasing moonbeams if they look as if they might be leading you somewhere interesting.

If you have obligations to a home and family, this can be most distressing to your marriage partner —unless it is someone who is as easy-going and carefree as you are, yourself. Even so, there will be times when it will be rugged unless you learn to settle down a little. You are not one to enjoy working for someone else. Yet, on the other hand, you don't have enough practical, common sense to run a business of your own at a profit. Perhaps your marriage mate will supply the practical share in the partnership. If so, then you can plan to go anywhere!

A born salesman, just be sure that you don't meet a smarter salesman who sells you a bill of goods! You are at times a little too trustful of human nature. You are honest and straightforward yourself, and expect the rest of the world to be the same way! And do learn to save as you earn for that proverbial "rainy day" and you may find it never arrives.

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Thursday, October 29

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — If an important matter needs to be settled on the home front, be practical and very wise about it

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — If you are one who is easily imposed upon because you are so good-natured, take care today!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — If a friend needs help and encouragement be friendly and even pollyanna-ish, if it will help.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Pay back your social obligations today. This is an excellent time to do it. This evening?

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20) — If you keep on trying, you may find that a life's ambition is not too far off! You're within reach.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20) — Discard outmoded methods and ideas. Being modern is also being progressive and you should advance faster.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21) — This is a day for love and romance. If marriage is in the picture, it could be a fine day for a wedding.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Always do a good job, even if appreciation is slow in coming. You will eventually win proper recognition.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Pessimism never pays. A happy attitude is much more likely to get you what you want.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Be warned against opposition. If there are those who are trying to antagonize you; then attempt to placate them.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Try to hold your temper. To say the wrong thing today, could upset the applecart! Be diplomatic.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Better for you not to say anything than to criticize just now. Try to find something good to praise, instead!

Developing Child's Attention

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

SUPPOSE your child's teacher informs you that he is not attentive at school, does not cooperate well or "needs to improve in citizenship." You may believe she means that you should command, scold or punish the child at home to make him more attentive and cooperative at school and a better citizen there. Unfortunately, an occasional teacher does mean just this.

However, most teachers assume that the parent will work at home in scores of everyday situations helping this child to be more attentive and cooperative and prove himself a better citizen at school.

Consult His Teacher

Have a conference with the teacher in which you and she can agree on how you might practice this child at home during the next several weeks or months to help him improve in the necessary ways.

Have no faith in ordering your child at home to pay better attention and work better with his teacher and the other children at school. Of course, at quiet companionable moments with this child, you might be able to help him see that he could be happier at school and get along better there if he tried to watch and listen carefully to everything done and said at school. This would be very different from scolding him for his not doing as he should at school.

You surely should let both the child and his teacher know you are back of the teacher and expect her to manage the child reasonably at school as she thinks best.

Winning His Attention

Even the teacher can't cause the child to pay attention well or to keep concentrating long by telling him to do so. She can, to be sure, cause him to be in his place and to be in a physical position for attending. But real attention goes on inside the child. He attends best to what appeals to him, to what he feels is worth attending, and what he can succeed at doing. In short, he attends and concentrates best when he is learning best. Anything we can do to help him gain more success at book learning should help in this direction.

Concentration At Home

At home, we can further cultivate his attention and concentration by making sure we have his sole attention before we make a simple request or command of him, by encouraging him to finish what he has begun, and by reading to him. In everything he volunteers to do or is required to do at home, he gets practice at good or bad cooperation and living with others or citizenship. A test of good citizenship at home is seen in all the ways the child reveals consideration for the rights and feelings of other persons there.

Improving a child's ways at school is not done in a few minutes, but in many weeks and months. It goes on and on indefinitely.

SMALL FURNISHED APART

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

You're The Native Make Some Plans

"DEAR MISS WOODWARD: I have a cousin whom I've met only once, but he's a swell guy, though very shy. One time I met his best friend, developed a big crush, started to write to him and we became very well acquainted. Now I've just found out that they're both coming here to visit! Though I'm every bit as shy as they are, isn't it up to me to break the ice? I mean, would it be proper to ask my friend for a date and to get a date for my cousin, too? Since I'm not in the habit of asking boys for dates, what should I say?"

You're the native and they're the visiting firemen, so it's definitely up to you to come through with some plans for fun. Call up their hostess and find out what you can do to help entertain the two boys. Suggest an invitation to your house for dinner, for instance. (If sitting around afterward seems too dull, maybe your dad could get your cousin aside and give him the dough to finance movies for the four of you). If there's anything special going on at school and in your crowd, suggest that you take the two boys along. Their hostess might be delighted to know that she won't have to be responsible for digging up dates for them—you're ready to take over the job. And when they arrive at her house she can tell them what's already been planned for them and have them get in touch with you at once. And that's not asking for a date really!

You Suggest It

"DEAR MISS WOODWARD: The boy I like lives very near by and I go over to his house a lot — it's usually the only way I see him. I'm quite sure he likes me (his mother says so), though he won't admit it to me or to anyone else. I'd like very much to go with him. Can you think of any way?"

Though this boy is pretty used to having you around and enjoys it—maybe the idea of dating with a girl hasn't hit him yet. That idea usually churns the girls before it does the boys. So, if he's a slow starter, give him a little prod in the right direction. Invite him when you're supposed to bring a boy along. Show him how much fun it can be to go out with you—and maybe he'll come up afterward with some entertaining ideas of his own.

Use Your Rain Check

"DEAR MISS WOODWARD: I was dancing with my girl friend when the boy I like came up and asked me to dance. I don't know why I did it, but I said 'maybe later.' I think he likes me, but do you think my putting him off has ruined my chances with him?"

"I took a rain check the last time you asked me to dance—when am I going to have a chance to use it?" Such a question is bound to start something! It's teasing him into asking you then and there. If he answers you "maybe later"—don't take it as a rebuff, but go on teasing him to make it soon, 'cause you can hardly wait.

And next time something's offered to you that you dearly want—grab it!

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Dusting Off The News

By CHARLES O. MOLZ

Those marriage courses, such as the one sponsored by St. Charles Church at Cornwells Heights, make more sense than you think. How else is the bride going to teach her husband the ethical side of helping with the dishes?

This is Girl Scout Week and we note that Bucks County is joining in the general commotion, including observance of Out of Doors Day next Saturday. This kind of climax for the week is designed, no doubt, to bring forth a bid to a football game.

Plans for Bristol's new swimming pool are now in the pencil stage, it says here. This has been so long in coming that it will be soon called the Ol' Swimming Hole.

When the cook runs off with the maid, that's romance. But when the cook runs off with the short order receipts, as he did in Newtown, that's made to order for the police.

When police testified they used a well-addressed weekly to solve their burglary and arson mysteries, it looks like they were producing the last epilogue to National Newspaper Week.

The thieves who went to stealing copper off the switch box wires at the PRR pumping station forgot, for the moment, that the word has another meaning, too.

Lazy Louie from Mill street says, after reading about those funny colored residences being built now, he is going to stick, for his part, to plum pudding and not plum houses. Besides, the pudding has a little brandy in it, which isn't always true of the houses.

Wins Four Classes At N. J. Horse Show

Noel Cohen, New Hope, took honors in four classes at the annual fall horse show of the Delaware Valley Horsemen's Association at Holcomb's Field, Mount Airy, N. J.

Top honors went to Barclay Tagg, Abington, who scored 18 points. More than 200 spectators braved the rain to watch the 82 entries go through their paces.

Show co-chairmen were Joseph Pratt and Harry Wagner, both of New Hope. Dr. Welling C. Howell, Lambertville, president of the association, was announcer.

FORMER POLICE CHIEF NAMED TO GOP GROUP

Joseph O. Seader, former police chief of Bristol township, has been appointed Republican committeeman in the first precinct of Bristol township's Fourth Ward.

The appointment was made by State Senator Edwin B. Watson, chairman of the Bucks County Republican Committee.

HARVEST HOE-DOWN

A Harvest Hoe-down is scheduled for Oct. 30th, hours from 8:30 to midnight, in Newportville Fire Co. station. The Newportville Civic Association is the sponsoring unit.

Busy Grandmother Works As Full-Time L'Town Sitter

By Barbara A. Zauner

Mrs. Olive Nothacker is an attractive grandmother whose pace has increased with her years. Babysitting is not her part-time job, but her profession. She lives with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman L. Nuss, at 1 White Spruce lane, Levitown.

Olive Wrenn Nothacker has worked for a good proportion of her 60 years of life. Born in Scranton, Pa., in July, 1893, she spent her childhood there, attending local schools and graduating from Scranton Technical High School. She then took a secretarial course at Lackawanna Business College.

Being kenly interested in the drama, she attended the Furman School of Oratory for four years, and still smiles at the roles she enacted in school plays. However, the training she acquired during those years has been of little practical use to her, she said.

Married at 20

Olive Wrenn married Albert G. Nothacker on Sept. 30, 1913, when she was 20 years old. She bore three children, Albert George, Jr., Donald A., and Marjorie Betty. The children were all good students and started early in life to contribute to the family income.

Albert, Jr., lives with his wife, Helen, in Woodbury, N. J. They have been married 16 years and have no children. Donald, who startled his family by eloping at the age of 19 with a high-school junior, now his wife, Margaret, lives in West Philadelphia. They have four children, Judith, 12; Joyce, 11; Donald, 10, and Diane, 5.

Marjorie, with whom Mrs. Nothacker lives, was a brilliant secretarial student. Valedictorian of the class of '40 at the Ridley Park High School, she was a contestant in the All-U. S. high school competition held at Bloomsburg State Teachers' College where she made the highest mark in shorthand that had been received in the ten preceding years. She is the mother of two children, Barry, 6, and Ronald, 4.

Proud Mother

Mrs. Nothacker is proud of her children and grandchildren and credits their devotion to her and her interest in them to her youthful appearance and vitality.

The children grown, Mrs. Nothacker went to work demonstrating food products in the Philadelphia stores. At one time she was deep in spaghetti sauce, demonstrating the cooking of Italian foods, and at another time she took over the demonstration work at a Philadelphia store.

In '44 Olive Nothacker became associated with a department store in Philadelphia, starting first as a demonstrator of a moth gas, and then kept on as saleslady in the lingerie department. She was with the firm for eight years, long enough to form the resolution that she would eventually hold a job which involved at least some sitting.

Buy in Levittown

Mrs. Nothacker was with her daughter and her family when they decided they wished to purchase a home in Bucks County. Newspaper advertising drew them to Levittown where they found their requirements were fulfilled. Their first anniversary in Levittown is coming up Dec. 6.

Jan. 19, 1953, Olive Nothacker commensed her first profesional baby-sitting job at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Appell where she cared for their two children during the day for eight months. The following week she registered for night baby-sitting with Mrs. John McCarthy, chairman of the Welcoming Committee of L.C.A., who maintains a baby-sitting registry as part of her work.

Takes Full Charge

Since that time Mrs. Nothacker has cared for babies and small children in all sections of Levittown. She takes full charge of the children, not only just day and evening work, which she does constantly, but is also available for weekends. She does no heavy housework, but feeds and bathes the children, and straightens up the home.

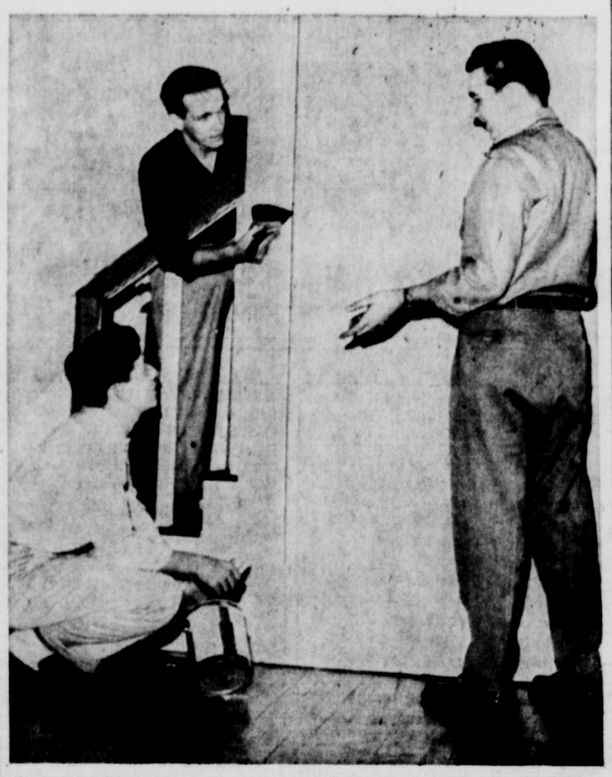

Parents feel secure in leaving their children in Mrs. Nothacker's capable hands. "All my children call me 'Nanny'," Mrs. Nothacker says with pride. She also happily comments, "I can truly say that of all the work I have ever done, I enjoy baby-sitting most of all because I have met so many interesting and wonderful people and so many cute youngsters."

Yet to cancel one engagement herself, her appointment book is constantly expanding, with some dates scheduled into 1954. She is extremely thankful for being financially independent in this phase of her life, and says with twinkling humor, "I may not have an exciting past, but I've got plenty of future!"

EPILEPSY THEORY

ATLANTA, Ga. — (INS) — Two southern doctors, Dr. Samuel C. Little and Dr. S. Livingston, believe certain epileptics may suffer attacks brought on by hillbilly and other music and faulty television sets.

Hail Department Store In Willow Grove Rites

Montgomery and Bucks Counties' first new department store in 21 years was officially opened to the public at noon today. Ceremonies were held at Snellenburgs-Willow Grove, Easton and York roads, in Willow Grove.

Alfred Blasband, executive head, welcomed residents of nearby communities into Snellenburg's first branch store.

Ribbon Ceremony

A ribbon across the front entrance to the new store was cut simultaneously by Mrs. George M. Miller, Abington, president of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. William B. Lynch, Davisville, president of the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Upper Moreland Township High School Band played at the opening before some 500 civic and business leaders from Montgomery, Bucks and Philadelphia counties.

Elizabeth Doubleday, Metropolitan Opera star, sang the National Anthem, while the Willow Grove Naval Station Color Guard saluted.

Lieut. Gov. Wood There

Albert M. Greenfield and Lieut. Gov. Lloyd C. Wood also participated. Carl Neu, manager of the new store, was also introduced.

A series of special events and personal appearances of radio, Television and sports stars will mark the opening week of the store. Shows in the fashion and home departments, as well as home economics programs, are scheduled to begin today. Customers also will be interviewed by celebrities on the "See Yourself on TV" Crosley Mobile TV Camera.

A puppet show for children has been scheduled at various times Saturday in the Suburban Community Room.

Grange Fights Call Of State Confab To Revise Basic Law

The Pennsylvania State Grange opposes the calling of a constitutional convention, a question that will appear on the ballot on Nov. 3.

Voters will be asked to vote on "Do you favor the preparation of a convention for a new constitution subject to ratification by the vote of the people?" The grange, which has 2500 members in Bucks County, described it as a "dynamite-laden question."

J. Collings McSparran, secretary of the state group, said, "The State Grange will support efforts to make needed changes in the constitution, but insists that any suggested changes be made to stand or fall on their own merits and not be presented to the voters in any package deal."

The Grange listed eight reasons it opposes the question. It cited the high cost of such a convention and the "impossibility" for the proposed changes to be studied, if the entire constitution were revised at one time as important reasons.

"All Grangers in Bucks county are of the same opinion," a spokesman for the Bucks County Grange said, when asked about the State Grange's announcement.

CHANGE EFFECTIVE NOV. 1

Newtown Man Takes Post as Doctor At George School, Succeeding Smith

Dr. Blaine R. Garner of Newtown will succeed Robert R. Smith of Langhorne as George School doctor on Nov. 1, it was announced today by Principal Richard McFeely. Dr. Smith has resigned to accept a new practice in Lancaster.

"All of us feel privileged to welcome Blaine Garner to a closer relationship with the school," Mr. McFeely commented, "and we wish Bob Smith luck. He has served George School faithfully and well. Our best wishes go with him."

Dr. Garner, graduate of Penn State and Jefferson Medical College, has for the past seven years been a general practioner in and around Newtown. The father of three boys, he was before the war an interne at Abington Hospital, then served with the U. S. Army from 1941-46.

Dr. Smith, born in Knoxville, Tenn., graduated from high school in North Carolina, got his undergraduate training at Washington and Lee University and his M.D. at University of Pennsylvania. Like his replacement, he was in military service, spending 39 months in the U. S. Air Force as a flight surgeon and earning thereby a number of honors including a Presidential citation with oak leaf cluster.

Professionally, he was on the visiting staff at Abington Hospital, where he also interned before the last war, and on the courtesy staff at Jeannes Hospital. He belongs to the American Medical Society and counterparts in Pennsylvania and in both Montgomery and Bucks counties.

He and his wife, Mary, have been active in George School and in area social life since the doctor became affiliated with the school in 1939.

BLADES DUE

PARIS — (INS) — The Hungarian daily newspaper, "Esti Budapest" recently noted that "in three months there will be razor blades on the market." Threats To Kill Neighbor Aired; Woman Fined $25

Charge Reduced To Carrying Gun Without License

DOYLESTOWN, October 28 — A Quakertown woman now separated from her husband, admitted in Bucks County criminal court that she "lost her head" April 20, when she took a .32 caliber revolver out of her coat pocket and threatened to shoot a neighbor woman when they were living in Levittown.

The woman is Mrs. Norine A. Scott, wife of Chester W. Scott, now living in Siles, Bucks County. She went on trial before a jury in Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite's court on charges of wantonly pointing a firearm and carrying a firearm without a license.

At the completion of the Commonwealth's case, the attorney for the defendant asked the court to set aside the charge of wantonly pointing a gun. Judge Satterthwaite granted the request.

Guilty on One Count

Mrs. Scott's attorney then entered a plea of guilty for his client on the charge of carrying a firearm without a license. Judge Satterthwaite sentenced Mrs. Scott to pay a fine of $25 and costs.

Mrs. Scott was arrested on April 20 by Bristol Township police after an officer had been summoned to the home of Mrs. Angeline Smith, at No. 6 Strawberry Lane, Levittown.

Mrs. Smith testified that Mrs. Scott came to her home April 20 and found that her husband, Chester Scott, was in the house. She told the court that Mrs. Scott scratched her face and threatened to kill her and Scott. She pulled a revolver out of her coat pocket at the time, Mrs. Smith testified.

Worked Together ..

Under cross-examination Mrs. Smith testified that she worked together with Mrs. Scott in an industrial plant. She also emphatically denied "going out with Mr. Scott, ever."

Judge Satterthwaite, at this point, made it clear that he did not care to go into any of the domestic affairs of the two families.

Mrs. Scott, who now lives in Quakertown, is employed at a Sellersville manufacturing plant.

Chief Deputy Bucks County Sheriff William Lang testified that Mrs. Scott had no license to carry a firearm.

Speaker Says TB Record Points To Need For County Health Dept.

The record of tuberculosis findings in Bucks County "shows how inadequate our communicable disease control is today," Dr. Richard I. Darnell, of New Hope, told members of the Bristol Parent-Teacher Association last evening in Bristol High School. Dr. Darnell represented the Bucks County Tuberculosis Society.

Dr. Darnell sought indorsement of a proposed department of health for Bucks county. "The coming tuberculosis survey will require a substantial amount of volunteer work," he said. "This load would be much lighter if there existed an agency to educate the people of the county in the need for such a survey. This is only one example of the heavy load now being carried by volunteer agencies, which could be much more effective in their work with some other units such as the county health department.

"In county health department costs, money returns many times over through disease prevented. This type of unit is now serving 120,000,000 people in 40 states, and is the answer to Pennsylvania's rating of 42nd in the nation in public health. The Bucks County Tuberculosis Society has the answer. Plans are being developed for a mass tuberculosis survey in December in the lower part of the county. A large force of volunteers is being recruited. It is based on the fact that you find 10 times as many cases of tuberculosis among adults as you do among children of school age".

The PTA president, Mrs. John C. Johnson, called on Mrs. Edward Hetherington for minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. E. W. Bilger for treasurer's report. As a vocal solo, Mrs. Russell A. Johnson offered "The PTA Prayer".

The chairman of safety committee requested volunteers to guard crossings during school hours. Several volunteered.

The president gave a report of sessions of the Pennsylvania Congress of Parents and Teachers in Philadelphia.

A motion was passed that $10 be donated to Bristol kindergarten for films.

Members of the ways and means committee served refreshments.

Township Police Make Survey On Green Lane Today

Bristol Township Police will conduct a survey of Green lane today for the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to determine the amount of traffic on the road, Chief John R. Stewart said.

The turnpike extension will terminate at Green lane until the bridge to carry the pike into New Jersey across the Delaware is constructed.

Area officials from time to time have expressed concern that a serious traffic problem will arise when vehicles are disgorged off the pike into this area.

Democrats Reveal Planks in Their Township Program

DEMOCRATS REVEAL NO. 4 P. 14

A ten-point election platform, with "open meetings" as the first of its planks, was announced today by the Democratic Committee of Bristol township.

Following are the "aims" listed:

All regular and special meetings open to the public and fully publicized. Complete cooperative program with school boards, as well as locally elected and appointed officials.

Common sense approach to roads, garbage and trash collections, adequate water supply, sewage, dumps and street lighting.

Recreation program, permanent registration board in Lower Bucks County.

Additional wards and precincts in Bristol township as required. Seek establishment of branches of County Offices in Lower Bucks County.

Honest and sincere cooperation with police and volunteer fire companies. Indorsement of a County Health Department.

Acceptance of a minority report as a part of the township records, when the minority group wishes to make one.

Eddington Woman Dies at Son's Home

A native of Germany, Mrs. Auguste Liddy Uhlig, 80, widow of Herman J. Uhlig, died last evening at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hellmutt K. Uhlig, Appleton avenue, Eddington.

Mrs. Uhlig had resided at Eddington and at Haddon Heights, N. J. during the past 14 years. She was active in Red Cross.

Other survivors include a son, Erich J. Uhlig, Haddon Heights, N. J. The Rev. Donald May, pastor of Eddington Presbyterian Church and Pastor Otto Dietrich, Phila., will officiate at services Saturday, one p. m., from the Uhlig residence. Friends may call Saturday 11 a. m. to one p. m. Interment will be in Lakeview Memorial Park, near Camden, N. J., under direction of J. Maurice Tomlinson, Cornwells Heights.

Local Contests In Lower Bucks

THE BRISTOL COURIER as part of its program to give readers full coverage of the Lower Bucks County area will run complete data on election contests in the townships and boroughs of Lower Bucks County. This series is designed to inform the reader and bring him up to date on the elections as they apply to his area. The series will conclude on Monday, Nov. 2, the day before county-wide balloting begins. Unofficial returns from each voting district in each borough and township in Lower Bucks County, as well as returns for all county-wide contests, will be carried in the Nov. 4 issue of THE BRISTOL COURIER.

Lower Makefield

In contrast with its neighboring townships, Middletown and Falls, Lower Makefield has little to offer in the way of hot issues in the coming elections. All candidates on the ballot are Republicans. The Democratic party will not contest any office except that of Inspector of Elections where only a plurality of one could determine majority and minority inspector.

A recent split approved by the county Board of Elections, divides the South District into two wards. Voters in District No. 1 and No. 2 in the South section will cast their ballots for the first time under this new change.

Voters in the South District No. 1 will cast their ballots in the basement of the Lower Makefield School. South District No. 2 will vote in the new Pennsbury School. Makefield road.

District No. 1 has 852 registered voters while District No. 2 has 729 registered voters. The Judge and Inspectors of Elections will have jurisdiction in Districts No. 1 and No. 2 This arrangement will be changed in the next primary election.

North District, with 484 registered voters, will cast ballots in the Community House at Woodside.

The township's candidates are: Supervisor, Russell F. Carter, R and D.; School Director, Anges C. Downs, R. and D.; Auditor (one to be selected), Raymond E. Margerum, Sr., R. and D.; Assessor, Frank L. Muschart, R. and D.

NORTH DISTRICT: Isiah Y. Heston, (R), Judge of Elections. Inspector of Elections: John E. Wright (R); Chris Bennett (D).

SOUTH DISTRICT: No. 1—Judge of Elections, no candidate; Inspector of Elections, no candidate.

SOUTH DISTRICT: No. 2—Judge of Elections, Samuel H. Preston, Jr., (R); Inspector of Elections, Lillian R. White, R. and D.

Newtown Twp.

Another contest that lacks crucial issues or partisan fight is that of Newtown township where the only office contested by the Democratic party is the seat of Judge of Elections.

The Township's 585 registered voters will cast their ballots at Newtown Ford, Inc., Building, Sycamore avenue.

Candidates for Newtown township are: Justice of the Peace, David K. Rishell, R and D. Supervisor, (one for six years) Raymond Goodnoe, R and D. Tax Collector, Garett P. Goodnoe, R. and D; Auditor, David R. B. Robson, R. and D; Judge of Elections, (one to be elected) William Eves, 3rd, (R); Harold MacIndoe, (D); Inspector of Elections, Elinor S. Campbell (R), and Suzanna R. Handen, (D).

Ultimatum Sent

they were permitted to negotiate with a union. Gallagher said the attorney professed having no knowledge of a reply from Dr. Haas.

"As far as the union is concerned, tonight's meeting was a farce," Gallagher said. "another stalling tactic employed by Straub and Bristol township school board."

Clarence H. Young, secretary of Bristol twp. board of school directors, serving as spokesman for the board, stated today:

"We wish to advise the parents of Bristol township public school children that the school authorities are still operating the schools of Bristol township, and not Mr. Andrew J. Kaelin, an international representative of the Transportation Union. Any notice whether school will operate or not will be issued by the school authorities."

Mr. Young pointed out that a meeting had been held last evening with John P., Betz, Esq., solicitor for the school district, who advised Mr. Kaelin that the school authorities will not negotiate with any union "because it is against the laws of the State of Pennsylvania."

Warns Drivers

Betz also advised the bus drivers that under Section 2, Act of June 30, 1947, "no public employee shall strike." He further stated that "Any employee who violates the provision of this act shall thereby abandon and terminate his employment, and shall no longer hold such a job or position."

This morning a meeting was held between the bus drivers and Walter D. Miller, regional superintendent, without representation of the officials of the Transportation Workers Union. At this meeting these drivers advised Miller that they would not take any drastic measures until after a meeting which will be held at the Delhaas school Wednesday, Nov. 4, at nine p. m., after which the school directors will meet with the drivers only.

Young stated: "The public was assured by the drivers that there will be bus transportation at least for five days after this meeting, and a promise has been made by the drivers that they will give five days notice before terminating their jobs if they desire to do so."

Slate Pre-School Hallowe'en Party

The Thornridgers will sponsor a Hallowe'en party for pre-school children at 1:30 p. m. Saturday at the William Penn Center. Admission will be a bundle of clothing for Korean children.

Mrs. Seymour Sorin, president of the group, says all Levittown children are invited. She said the organization is particularly interested for the younger children to attend.

SURPRISE EXPERIMENT

Civil Air Patrol Squadron No. 105 To Take Part in State Rescue Drill

Civil Air Patrol Squadron 105 based at Buehl Field, Eddington, will take part in a state-wide search and rescue drill Sunday, Chris Ritter, warrant officer in the squadron, said today.

The Air Force will release the exact time and place of the operation Saturday as a surprise move to determine readiness of CAP personnel and equipment, Ritter said.

Squadron 105, which includes the American Legion Pilot Post, has 95 pilots on its roster and 35 cadets.

The cadets met last night in Cornwells Heights Fire House for drill and further study. Lt. Henry Holler of Feasterville, commandant of the cadets, and Ralph Hilgendorf of Edgely, instructor, reported on a CAP regional conference they attended in Atlantic City last weekend.

Ritter said boys and girls between the ages of 15 and 17 who are interested in flying may attend the meeting and may enlist in the weekly meetings and may enlist in the CAP. The program is sponsored by the Air Force and is subsidized by it, Ritter said.

The squadron recently acquired a truck from an Eddington dairy, which will be used to transport mobile communications equipment, Ritter said. The squadron is conducting a drive to get funds to recondition the truck and equip it.

People Places and Things

By CAROL GABLER

A Shady Deal

Number 1, Flower Lane, Levittown, was purchased yesterday by Walter A. Zimmer, Jr. and wife, formerly of Brooklyn. But it's not at all as simple as it sounds.

In the first place, Zimmer, now in the Merchant Marine, had never seen the house by daylight until yesterday when settlement was made. He and his wife were shopping in the center at night not so long ago, viewed the homes then, and decided to buy one—without inspecting it. Next thing he knew he was shipped to the South Pacific, where "radio silence" was imposed. "We couldn't make settlement until he came home," said Charles Fink of the J. Halperin and Co., real estate agents. "You see," he explained, "even though his wife had power of attorney, we still needed proof that he was alive and willing to buy—but he wasn't allowed to send even a telegram under radio silence."

Zimmer, who is still in the Merchant Marine, finally got a leave yesterday to close negotiations. The only other problem was getting the present owner here at the same time. So, Joseph P. Hayes, former owner of the home, flew in from Texas to sign the papers. Fink reports that everyone, though slightly exhausted, is now resting comfortably.

Tight Squeeze:

According to farm experts, farmers in Lower Bucks County will have the proverbial "squeeze" put on them soon. And here's what they mean: although labor costs are going up in the area and will continue to (because of higher wages offered by industry), commodity farmers here will not be able to raise their prices. The root of their troubles lies in the fact that nearby farmers, not affected by the boom-time conditions here, can still sell their produce at the same price they always did.

Stole a Pie and Away He Run:

Who stole the pumpkin from Mrs. Stanert's corn shock? Mrs. Robert Stanert, 212 Lakeside drive, Levittown, whose picture appears in yesterday's COURIER, reports that the pumpkin pictured was later stolen from the top of the corn shock and had to be replaced. Nothing, not even a pumpkin, is safe nowadays.

Add Hallowe'en News:

Newtown is going Morrisville one better—in the field of window painting, that is. Not only can high school and elementary school children participate—as in Morrisville—but adults can get into the act too . . . . . Bristol Friends report that clothes are already coming in from children participating in their "Friendly Beggars" program for Hallowe'en.

Here 'n' There

One of the "twirlers" in Monday night's variety show, given by Morrisville PTA, was Suzanne Cote, daughter of Victor Cote who is president of the PTA. Cote was chairman of the affair . . . . . The first issue of the Tullytown School Newspaper will appear Nov. 25 . . . . . John Franks, secretary of Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce, attended the state Chamber of Commerce convention in Philadelphia last Thursday. Franks reports that everyone expressed a deep interest in Lower Bucks, and praised its progress. All except one man. "I think U. S. Steel is over-rated," he said, blandly. No one was too surprised to learn he was from Bethlehem, Pa.—the home of Bethlehem Steel.

PIPE BURIAL

NEW YORK — (INS) — More dirt has been moved to bury pipe lines, most of which carry oil or its products, than that required the beginning of time.
